DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS – DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

Advertising must be prepaid, except as noted below; see "Payment" paragraph above for details. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals must be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon, black ink (not pencil) on white. If used, reverse type must be limited to 25% of the ad. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85-line screen; otherwise, add $16.00 per photo for screening. Do not cut or trim photos or glue photos to artwork; submit separately.

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad. We will be happy to advise you on your ad ideas, estimate how much the ad will cost, recommend an ad size, etc.

We assume that advertisers want all ads which are submitted to run without delay; therefore, we will run the ad and bill for any additional work required for the ad to meet these specifications. A late ad will run beginning with the next month. "Tear sheets" will be sent only for 1/8-page or larger ads and only if requested when the ad is submitted.

First business card per advertiser is at lower rate.

ANTIQUE RADIO CLASSIFIED

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

The old saying that "variety is the spice of life" certainly applies to this issue of A.R.C. and to radio collecting in general. The interests of radio collectors are multiple — from the traditional crystal, tombstone, and cathedral sets to paper documentation of radio history and to repair and restoration.

And, it doesn't stop there. Novelties like the Colonial "Globe" on our cover, tubes, vintage headphones, and foreign sets — at least one, if not all, can become the passion of some vintage equipment collector. Just scan the photos in this issue, and you'll see what I mean.

Variety is even evident in the many museums now established across the country. In this issue, Chris Watts reports on the newly expanded Vintage Radio and Communications Museum of Connecticut in East Hartford. Here the varied displays include not only radios, some with Connecticut history, but also early quartz crystals, test equipment, and telephones. Not to be missed is the Crosley refrigerator with a built-in radio.

And, don't forget that the New England Wireless and Steam Museum is in neighboring Rhode Island. Both are worth going out of your way to see, if you happen to be traveling in the area.

As always, Wally Worth is dogged in his pursuit of radio information. The history of his rare tombstone was difficult to ferret out, but we're glad to say that A.R.C. helped him in his research.

Another happy circumstance for A.R.C. is an article that grows out of earlier exchanges in the magazine. An inquiry from Mary Detsch about the Corbett Cabinet Manufacturing Company, founded by her grandfather, inspired Dale Davenport's article about Corbett. The deeper we delve, the more we know.

Scott Balderston's collection of headphones falls neatly into the theme of variety. Generic headphones are relatively inexpensive and widely available, while the search for those made by specific companies, such as Crosley, is more of a challenge. Scott obviously finds headphones fun to collect and to repair.

Loop antennas are striking in appearance and always stand out in any collection. Joseph Jackson's Korach antenna is no exception. Its built-in compass helps direct the antenna to a desired station.

Restoration and repair are primary interests for many of you. When the radio is a novelty like Edward Krawczyk's Colonial "Globe" radio, repair can be even more demanding. Edward describes the constraints of dealing with a chassis mounted in a globe rather than in a cabinet specifically designed for a radio. Read about his innovative solutions.

Robert Barr decided that a good substitute for the expensive 1L6 tube in a Zenith Trans-Oceanic G-500 would be the inexpensive 1R5. His inspiration, we're glad to say, was the A.R.C. articles on this subject in the January 1997 and March 1998 issues.

Prompted by Richard Begbie's January 2000 article on the Atwater Kent driver problem, Nick van Vonno came up with a good solution for a similar problem — a Sears oil filter wrench. Nick also brings Zen into the discussion, but that's another story.

Variety in types and sizes of meets is illustrated in the three described this month. Ted Miller reports on the 3-day Carolinas Chapter of AWA spring meet, which included all the major happenings expected at such a large event — a flea market, programs, an old equipment contest, and an auction.

George Potter reports on the VRPS spring auction in Grapevine, Texas, also a quality event. Over 200 attended and proceeds totalled $22,210. On a smaller scale was the AWA spring meet in Bloomfield, New York, reported by Larry Babcock. Larry reminds us that the occasional find and the camaraderie make small meets as enjoyable as large ones.

John Hagman expresses a similar sentiment in his comparison of a New Hampshire meet with eBay. The personal touch is definitely missing on eBay.

Among the unusual sets pictured in Photo Review are the Efescaphone "Nelson Grand" radio and the Philco 49-901. This latter set has a unique roller across the front for both tuning and volume control.

So many informative and/or amusing letters come to the editor for Radio Miscellanea that it's not always easy to choose. Stan Lopes offers a tip and promised us that we can look forward to more. The topic of "Radio Wives" has surfaced again, and there is news from the marketplace, as well as, yes, the dump.

The Internet. Subscribers are enjoying the timely posting of current classified ads. We continue to put up ads from previous months for nonsubscribers — a practice that benefits all. Be sure to check the site about 10 days before the end of the month to find out the date the new ads will be posted.

Coming Radio Events. The fall meet season is in full swing and includes these multiday September events: the Southeastern Antique Radio Society's Fall Swap Meet in Georgia, the Houston Vintage Radio Association's Mega Auction in Texas and the Antique Wireless Association's 39th annual conference in New York. A.R.C. will be at AWA, so please stop by to say, "hi"!

Happy Collecting!

PRINTED WITHOUT COMMENT

A.R.C. has received reports from four individuals who have sent funds to Paul Etheridge of Missouri. They did not receive the items for which they paid. Two problems were rectified after considerable effort. A.R.C. serves as a clearinghouse for complaints if readers have not been able to resolve the problem themselves.

ON THE COVER

Our cover features the Colonial "Globe" radio, ca. 1933, the subject of Edward Krawczyk's article on page 14. The electronics of this striking set are split between the base and the globe. We greatly appreciate the quality of Edward's photo, which made it a good cover candidate.

The Vintage Radio and Communications Museum of Connecticut

BY CHRIS WATTS

The Vintage Radio and Communications Museum of Connecticut opened its doors at a new facility in East Hartford, Connecticut, in September 1999. The museum, which is one of New England's finest for the preservation of vintage communications technologies, moved to 711 Main Street from its old home at 1231 Main Street. The new building is twice the size of the old one.

The new location provides an expanded display area, along with a fully functional library and research facility, and an antique radio repair room. A future low-power FM radio transmission facility is planned. The museum should be a highlight of a trip to Connecticut for collectors.

East Hartford Mayor Timothy Larson and volunteers from the Vintage Radio and Communications Museum of Connecticut cut the ribbon officially opening the museum at its new location at 711 Main St., East Hartford.

On display are radios, televisions, motion picture and telephone equipment, as well as vintage advertising and memorabilia. Audio, video and paper libraries, along with an extensive collection of schematics, are also available for research.

Browsing through the VRCM library.

The new facility also allows the supporting group to set up two displays that they were not able to fit into the old building. Both will be up and running in the near future. One display is the standard cell workshop donated by the Eppley Corporation of Newport, Rhode Island. Eppley was America's only company that created and maintained standard 1-volt cells used in the calibration of industrial machinery. This equipment will be operative so that the museum can create standard volt cells.

Another display in the works is the Crystal Research Labs Center, which consists of all the

The Aetna Radiophone Corp. of America

In keeping with its interest in preserving the radio history of Connecticut, the Vintage Radio and Communications Museum has on display an Aetna crystal set, made by the Aetna Radiophone Corporation of America, and shown in Figure 1. Little is known about this company, and the name has been found only in the 1922-1923 Hartford phone book.

Apparently, the model pictured is the only one the company made at the factory in the old commercial center of Hartford on the corner of Temple and Market streets. The building, shown in Figure 2, was demolished in the 1960s to make way for today's Constitution Plaza.

Figures 3 and 4 show what must have been a typical assembly line workroom of the 1920s. All these photos were donated to the museum, and the assumption is that they are sales and marketing photos.

The interesting photos led museum members on a search for an Aetna set, which they found in Massachusetts. The group pooled their resources, bought the set, and have displayed it among the photos.

Though the Aetna name is certainly a familiar one in Hartford, the consensus is that there is no connection between the radio company and the well-known insurance company. If anyone out there knows more about the Aetna Radiophone Corp. of Connecticut, please contact John Ellsworth at (860) 675-9916.

equipment from a Hartford company that used to make communications crystals out of raw quartz. The company went out of business over 35 years ago, and this display is a great complement to others showing Connecticut's major contributions to the communications industry.

The museum recently received a large donation of telephone equipment from the Southern New England Telephone Company, which had closed an old building in Hartford. This donation greatly expanded the museum's telephone display, which, along with a phonograph display, appeals to the special interests of many collectors.

Another component of the museum's mission is education. In cooperation with Manchester Community Technical College, Mike Hiza teaches a course in old radio repair. Museum members also help to teach the course, and the new library serves as a great resource for participants.

The Vintage Radio and Communications Museum of Connecticut was founded in 1990 as a non-profit 501(c)3 company dedicated to the preservation of old-time communications equipment and the education of the public. "The opening of the museum at our new home is the culmination of many years of hard work by our volunteers and the physical realization of my personal dream," said museum president John Ellsworth.

Now the museum has turned its sights on obtaining funding from state and private resources. "We've been running the museum on a shoestring for the past nine years and have amazingly been able to keep our heads above water," said Ellsworth. "If we could just get one company or individual to step forward with a substantial donation, we can expand our hours and programs and make the Vintage Radio and Communications Museum of Connecticut one of the premier museums in the entire country."

The museum is open Thursdays and Fridays, 10:00 A.M. to 2:00 P.M., Saturdays 11:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. and Sundays 1:00 P.M. to 4:00 P.M. Large groups may be accommodated by appointment. For more information about the museum and its September 16 swap meet, call: (860) 673-0518.

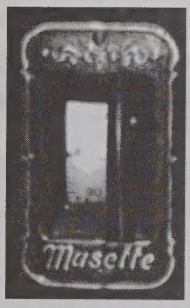
The Musette — A Rare Tombstone

BY WALLY WORTH

This rare, difficult to identify radio is an interesting set. At first look, you may think it's a superhet, but it's actually a TRF set. While trying to identify it, Wally Worth discovered that A.R.C. is a useful reference. (Editor)



The "Musette" radio, shown in Figure 1, was manufactured in 1931 by the Ottawa Furniture Co. of Holland, Michigan, whose parent company was the Carvac Corporation of Ann Arbor, Michigan. Carvac also made the 1930 "Autovax" radio, a 5-tube TRF in an unusual cabinet. This company succeeded the Consolidated Radio Corp., manufacturer of "Arborphone" radios since 1923.

The Musette is a 6-tube receiver in a fine walnut tombstone case with a slightly rounded top. It has a thumbwheel knob protruding through the front panel, slightly off center to the right, and a volume control knob and on/off switch on the right side of the cabinet.

The heavy, solidly built chassis is similar to the chassis used by Emerson Radio and Phono Corp. of that period. The tube lineup includes the following types: 24, 24, 24, 27, 45, 80. These Type 24 tubes were not the Type 24As of the later period. Carvac also used the Type 24 tube in its chassis.

The 10-inch speaker is by Isodyne and measures 18" high x 14¼" wide x 9¾" deep. The front is striking with a vertical birch column on each side and a bird's-eye maple crown across the top.

This set is so rare that identifying the maker was very difficult. No one knew anything about it. But, I finally found a reference to Musette in Frank White's A.R.C. Index. Frank Heathcote's article in the July 1985 issue became the source of the information in this article.

Readers should note that there is no connection between the Musette in this article and the Musette horn speaker made by the Frost Mfg. Co.

Anyone out there have a Musette radio?

At age 15, Wally Worth began saving his paper route money to buy parts for 1-tube sets. In 1986, 50 years later, he started to collect anything that needed cabinet work. His diverse collection ranges from 1920s battery sets to AC, transistor, and multiband sets. Early tubes, horn and cone speakers, and even novelty sets are also included.

Corbett Cabinet Mfg. Co. Follow-up

BY DALE DAVENPORT

In the December 1999 issue, A.R.C. published a letter from Mary Detsch of Lebanon, N. H., requesting information about her grandfather's company — the Corbett Cabinet Mfg. Co. Dale Davenport first replied with an address from the 1925 "Radio Manufacturer's Directory": Corbett Mfg. Co., 1415 East St., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Additional research led Dale to more information to share with Ms. Detsch and our readers. (Editor)

Advertisements for Corbett cabinets appear in a number of mid-1920s radio magazines, but most are without pictures. The Corbett cabinet, shown in Figure 1, appears in an ad that lists eight cabinets, but it is likely there were other styles available, if one sent for the LC-27 folder mentioned. The Corbett cabinets were aimed at those who constructed radios at home, but most cabinet manufacturers solicited large volume business from radio set manufacturers.

Figure 2 provides another example of a Corbett cabinet. This one houses a Browning-Drake radio. Often the cabinet was designed by the set manufacturer; so, it's quite likely there are Corbett cabinets that may still exist but are not identified as such by any sort of label or stamp.

The Corbett ad showing a sample of the company's cabinet work seems to be something a bit out of the ordinary as far as I've been able to determine. A little speculation might be in order here.

THE ADVERTISEMENT-ARTICLE CONNECTION

Citizen's Radio Call Book was a quarterly publication out of Chicago and rather openly "pushed" companies and products from that area, though not exclusively. Issues featured many "how to" articles for construction of the (at the time) most popular sets for home construction. Home construction then still accounted for perhaps half of the radios in operation.

Each issue's featured construction articles were supported by large display ads of the companies whose products were used in those construction projects. It seems that the construction articles were specifically tailored to those that bought advertising space. Perhaps it also worked the other way around. In any event, this unabashed endorsement of an advertiser's products went on for most of the periodical's life.

Construction articles for sets tended to lean towards the big expensive superheterodyne type sets, and each issue would feature from 7 to 12 construction articles. Very often the principal parts manufacturer's advertisement would appear on a facing or following page of the magazine.

CORBETT CABINETS AND THE "CITIZEN'S RADIO CALL BOOK"

The March 1927 issue of Citizen's Radio Call Book has several construction articles for sets that are housed in Corbett cabinets or those of similar appearance. One of them — the Browning Drake construction article — states as much: The Phasatrol radio, shown in Figure 3, is housed in a cabinet that resembles a Corbett cabinet; however, the cabinet manufacturer is not specified.

Several construction articles show cabinets that look almost identical, but they are made by other cabinet companies like Fritts and Excello. The look-alike cabinet shown in Figure 4 is an Excello product. The inference seems to be that any one of the three cabinets could be used on any of the projects. All three cabinet companies have ads in this issue.

The general cabinet style, with the front two corners chamfered at a 45° angle was a fairly popular one at the time, though I'm not sure who designed and first produced it. Its popularity lasted for perhaps another year or so.

Someone with better resources than mine may come up with more or different pictures and details about Corbett. Apparently, this was a fairly substantial company, if one can judge from the advertising of the time.

There were at least 50 or 60 and perhaps more companies in the U. S. making cabinets at the time, and most of them advertised little, if at all. Some advertised only locally or sold a rather limited production through local or regional outlets. Some too sold most or all of their production to a local or regional set manufacturer.

The series of cabinets pictured all have a distinctive "applied" Repwood decoration on the front comers. (Repwood was a material made from glue and wood flour and molded to look like "carved" wood. Used for a number of years as cabinet decoration, it met its zenith in production of complete Repwood cabinets by or for the Crosley Company.) The cabinets made by Fritts, Excello, and perhaps others used similar but distinctive decorations. Quality of construction might vary too.

Dale Davenport has worked in commercial broadcasting as an announcer, news director, owner, and engineer. He has been a collector since age 14, and his wide-ranging interests include Metrodyne, Steinite, and early AC sets. His prize is a Crosley Ace 3B portable.

More on Substituting the 1R5 for the 1L6 Tube

BY ROBERT BARR

A while ago, a friend of mine purchased a Zenith Trans-Oceanic Model G-500 at an estate sale for $20. The radio was complete and in good condition. I've seen many Trans-Oceanics with a missing lid.

I agreed to fix it for him and explained the expense of a replacement 1L6 tube, if this was the problem. I plugged the set in and turned it on, and it sounded like something from another planet. I pulled out what should have been a 1L6 tube, but it turned out to be a 7-pin 1R5, which checked out to be good in the tube tester. I then checked the 1U4, the 1S5, and the 3V4 tubes. All were shorted out. I'm surprised the set played at all.

I remembered the articles in A.R.C. (January 1997 and March 1998) about substituting the 1R5 for the 1L6 tube and got the tubes out. I was curious to see for myself how this would work.

I carefully cut and filed Pin No. 5 from the 1R5 tube, being careful not to cut into the glass. I placed the modified 1R5 tube in the 1L6 socket making sure the No. 1 and No. 7 pins were in the correct location. I followed this up by putting in good 1U4, 1S5, and 3V4 tubes and turned the radio on.

The dial pointer was set at 1270 AM, a local station, and I had to adjust the tuning knob further to tune in the station. It came in loud and clear. The set was working well. I did not get any audible reception on the higher bands. It was midday and not the best time for good reception.

Collecting Vintage Headphones

BY SCOTT BALDERSTON

As new radio collectors gain experience, they seem to focus on a particular aspect of the hobby. In the case of Scott Balderston, his interest in crystal sets led him to begin collecting headphones. In this article, he offers useful information about restoring and displaying headphones. (Editor)

I became interested in antique radios about three years ago and gravitated toward crystal sets. I wanted to be able to listen to them and bought a pair of Brandes Superior Matched Tone headphones from the Play Things of Past catalog. They worked well, and I bought a couple of other pairs. It was fun to test them against each other to see which sounded the best and had the best sensitivity.

I discovered that collecting vintage headphones is fun and not too expensive. Since headphones are relatively cheap, it was not prohibitive to pick up a pair here and there at swap meets and auctions. When they were sold back in the early 1920s though, a good pair of Baldwin headphones, for example, might cost $15, which was a week's wages in those days.

I discovered "The Master Headset Finder" in the February 1999 Old Timer's Bulletin and started checking off sets I had collected. After two years of collecting, I had about 100 different pairs of headphones and built racks to hold them for display. One of the racks is shown in Figure 1. Finished with dark brown paint, these racks are made of 1" x 8" pine boards for the uprights and 1" x 4" cross pieces with a little piece of quarter-round moulding at the bottom to keep the phones from slipping off. Figure 2 provides a close-up view of a rack.

Many of the headphones didn't work when I got them. I used Elmer Osteroudt's handbook on headphone repair to learn how to make repairs, such as finding open circuit areas in the cord and splicing them back together. The "ultimate" repair problem for a dead headphone is if one or more of the coils are open and need all the fine wire unwound until the breaks are located and then rewound onto the core. A variable speed electric drill and a little jig are helpful in accomplishing this task.

I now carry a little pocket multimeter with me to test headphones at swap meets before buying them. If you are buying a pair to use, it is best to make sure they work or you may end up with a useless set of phones.

My favorites for listening are Brandes Superior, Western Electric 509-W, and Dictograph R-1.

Baldwin Type C mica diaphragm headphones are the most sensitive for serious DXers using crystal sets. My favorite novelty pair is a set of Songbird headphones that have a picture of a bird stamped on the back and the bird is actually wearing a set of headphones!

One of the best things about collecting headphones is that even with a very limited budget you can start up a collection and hang a few pairs of phones on a rack to accent any collection of early radios.

The Korach Loop Antenna

BY JOSEPH G. JACKSON

The unusual loop antenna shown in Figure 1 was manufactured by the Hermanson Korach Manufacturing Company of Chicago, Illinois. While the diamond-shaped construction is relatively common, the antenna has some unusual features.

Figure 2 shows a close-up of the built-in compass and the calibrated dial that allow the anntenna to be directed to a desired station or geographical location — a precursor to the TV antenna rotator. The manufacturer's name appears on the cross member support shown in Figure 3. The limbs of the loop can be folded at the support for portability. The loop measures 30" on each side and the complete antenna is 54" high.

The Colonial "Globe" Radio

BY EDWARD KRAWCZYK

Novelty radios are always eye-catchers, but the "Globe" radio really stands out. Because of its construction, repair or restoration of this radio is likely to be more challenging than that of radios housed in conventional cabinets. But if you are ready to take on the "world," Edward Krawczyk has some handy hints for you. (Editor)

Even among novelty radios, the Colonial Model 700 "Globe," circa 1933, is a standout. The unique radio, shown in Figure 1, is a 5-tube AC/DC set, although Colonial also produced an AC-only model. The AC/DC version uses the following tube types: a 6A7 oscillator/mixer, a 78 IF amplifier, a 75 detector/AVC, a 43 audio output and a 25Z5 rectifier. The tube filaments are wired in series and a resistance line cord is used to drop the line voltage to the required filament voltage.

If your first reaction is, "How do I get this thing apart?" relax. Rider Volume IV provides complete instructions for removing the two halves of the globe and getting to the chassis.

RESISTANCE LINE CORD

Since the radio uses a resistance line cord, you may be concerned that the line cord is bad and ask yourself "Where do I get a replacement?" Again, don't worry. I installed a new 2-wire line cord and, as shown in Figure 2, I substituted a silicon diode, Type 1N4005, for the resistance element in the old line cord. Because the diode conducts only on the positive half-cycle, it produces about 60 VAC, which is close enough to the 69 volts required by the filament string.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE GLOBE RADIO

The main chassis assembly is mounted in the globe. This chassis contains the 6A7, 78, 75 and 25Z5 tubes and their associated components. The 43 audio output tube is located in the radio's base along with the output transformer and speaker. Electrical connections between the main chassis and the base-mounted components are made by a cable. Quite likely, you will find the wires in this cable are frayed or broken. In the worst case, the wires may have been cut by someone attempting to repair the radio.

REPLACING THE CABLE

Replacing the wires in this cable can be a tedious process because they must be fed through the gooseneck that mounts the globe to the base. Figure 3 illustrates the technique that I used to simplify the task of pulling the replacement wires through the gooseneck.

Working on one wire at a time, I temporarily

soldered each new wire to an old wire. Then pulling on the old wire, I eased each new wire through the gooseneck. As you do this work, it is a good idea to make a sketch of what you have done. Using a different color for each wire is also helpful. The use of stranded wire with plastic insulation is recommended for the new wiring.

One of the original wires is shielded, and for a replacement, I use a "mini" mike cable available at Radio Shack. If you have a problem locating the shielded cable, I have a limited supply that I will gladly share.

OTHER THOUGHTS

I recommend that all capacitors be replaced while you have access to the chassis. And finally, when you reassemble the radio, be sure to heed the notice that appears in the Rider manual. It states, "The chassis and shafts are above ground potential, making it necessary to insulate the knobs and the equatorial ring from the shafts by means of fibre bushings. Note that the bushing in the knob is closed on one end to prevent the shaft from touching the knob. Be sure these insulating bushings are properly replaced after disassembling the Globe."

The unusual appearance of this radio and its high market value are good reasons to tackle the restoration of a Colonial Globe.

Edward Krawczyk has been active in radio repair and restoration since his high school years when he bought and sold kits at a profit. He attended an electronic school and worked at IT Labs in New Jersey as an electronics techician repairing and calibrating test equipment of all types. After leaving the labs, he operated a TV service.

More on the Atwater Kent Driver Problem

BY NICK VAN VONNO

Richard Begbie's well written article "Rebuilding an Atwater Kent Driver" in the January 2000 A.R.C. reminded me of my own first experience with an Atwater Kent horn. This one came from a freestanding horn speaker purchased at an antique fair. When I bought it, the dealer said it was playing. That just did not turn out to be accurate.

As pointed out in the article, getting the driver unscrewed is the main challenge. In the freestanding horn, paint appearance is an issue, so it's not really too practical to clamp any part of it in a vise unless you want to refinish. Additionally, the driver is sunk well into the base, so you'll not be using conventional wrenches on it.

I suggest that you first read Robert M. Persig's book Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, specifically Chapter 26 dealing with "stuckness." Briefly, such a stuck assembly (an AK horn with a frozen driver, or an early Triumph with a stuck timing screw) is essentially worthless until the "stuckness" is overcome. The owner thus has the stress of seeing such an expensive item be worthless, at least temporarily. That is what will keep you up half the night, or all of it, trying to remedy the situation. Drives you crazy, it does.

I approached my horn repair by drawing on years of antique motorcycle experience. I had learned not to be in a hurry. First, I applied gentle heat from a heat source — a paint stripper heat gun for this. After heating, I applied penetrating oil and set the whole mess aside to soak overnight. I repeated this process for a week; remember, no hurrying. I tried to unscrew the driver by hand each time, but that was just wishful thinking.

Tapping with a screwdriver will just shatter the zinc alloy, as Richard Begbie notes. The trick seemed to be to apply even pressure all around the rim. Off to the auto parts store for an oil filter wrench. These filters start at 3 inches in diameter, and that is the Awater Kent horn dimension as well. I bought two: one is a strap that tightens as the attached handle is turned, and the other is made up of two parts that move together (by a rack and pinion arrangement actually) as the entire wrench is turned with an attached socket drive.

The strap wrench did not fit into the base well of the horn, so I had to abandon it. However, the 2-piece wrench fit down very well, and I unscrewed the driver without a great deal of trouble.

The Sears part number of the oil filter wrench shown in Figure 1 is 246955. Note the angled ends that grip the driver — or oil filter as Sears intended — and the rack and pinion mechanism in the center that tightens the tool as you turn it.

Before rewinding the coil, I looked at mine, measured the wire, and found it is 34 AWG. I counted 40 layers of winding at 150 turns each. A question remains — is there an easier way to determine the data for rewinding the coils than the direct method that I used? A formula, anyone?

MEET REPORT

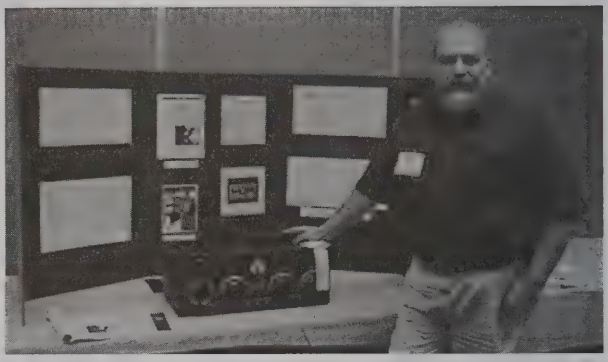
Carolinas Chapter of AWA Spring Meet
Charlotte, North Carolina — March 23-25, 2000

REPORTED BY TED MILLER

The Carolinas Chapter of the Antique Wireless Association (CC-AWA) hosted the 24th annual "Spring Meet in the Carolinas," March 23-25, 2000. If you are interested in antique radio, you were probably at the Sheraton Airport Plaza Hotel, in Charlotte, North Carolina, prepared to enjoy three days of beautiful Carolina blue sky, Southern cooking, and, of course, one of the finest antique radio meets on the East Coast.

The registration desk opened in the Sheraton lobby at noon on Thursday, March 23. Trying something new this year, the CC-AWA decided to present its programming on Thursday afternoon. Tim Patton, K4TJP, started the programs with a presentation on collecting telegraph keys. This aspect of the hobby is often neglected, but Tim's fine program reminded us of the historical importance of these items. Next, John Allen, W4GQT, presented a highly informative program on Spy Radios, which Ed Lyon joined during the discussion period.

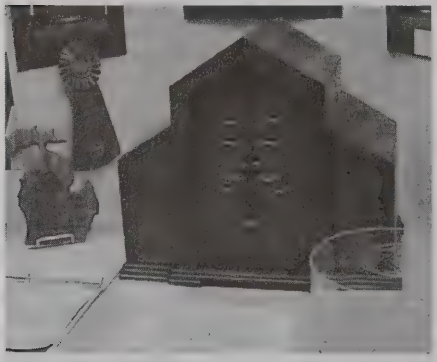
The evening programs included a radio restoration open forum and practical demonstration by Stan Watkins, as well as a talk by Robert Lozier showing his recent efforts to document his collection using a digital camera and computer software.



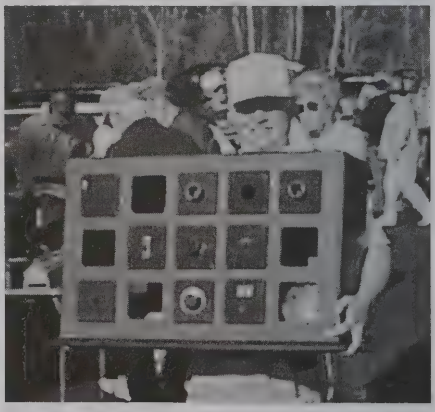
Ron Lawrence shows his Clough-Brengle transmitter, which won first place in Amateur radio and a gold ribbon for "Best Presentation."

The flea market, which occupied nearly all the large parking lot again this year, got underway promptly at 8:00 A.M. on Friday morning with our now famous "LeMans Start." No selling or display of merchandise is allowed prior to 8:00 A.M., thus giving everyone an equal opportunity to get at the goodies. There was something for everyone.

I saw an early amateur transmitter, ca. 1930, that had obviously been constructed by a skilled craftsman, who used copper shielding and breadboard component mounting. An Ultradyne superhet in a glass



In the former blue ribbon winners class, John DeLoria's Repwood Lyric won a Senior Class 2 for sets made after 1930. The set is surrounded by some of its many awards.



Ernie Hite carries his big find of the meet — a 15-panel DeForest Interpanel — a rare bird, indeed.

Larry Babcock was happy to find this RCA BP10 radio in an unusual case adorned with trilon and perisphere — symbols of the 1939 World's Fair. Since Larry has fond memories that event, he now has a growing collection of World's Fair memorabilia.

cabinet was one of the first items scarfed up. The usual selection of Kennedy, Grebe, Atwater Kent, Zenith and Crosley sets were available, and cathedral, plastic and Catalin table models enjoyed brisk sales. Buford and Jane Chidester did a thriving business supplying reproduction cones for the derelict speakers that attendees have learned to bring to the meet for them to complete.

The auction began at 3:00 P.M. Of the 101 lots offered, all but 30 were sold for a gross of over $4,000.

The old equipment contest this year brought out some highly desirable pieces. Some of the highlights were a BASCO (Briggs & Stratton) crystal set, a Paragon RA-10 in working order, a beautiful Zenith 27 complete with the rare power supplies, a Pilot tombstone, a 32-volt Philco farm set, a New Zealand Pacemaker receiver (a Bakelite set from the 1950s), and a very collectible Zenith 2-transistor pendant radio.

Another innovation this year was the Senior Class for former blue ribbon winners. Our contest rules state that once a set has won a blue ribbon at this meet, it is no longer eligible to compete for an award. This new class is an effort to bring out those former winners that have not been seen for a while.

If you were unable to attend this meet, you missed a great time. Don't despair, however, because we are planning something very special for next year's 25th Anniversary of the Spring Meet in the Carolinas. We'll even ask to have the azaleas and dogwoods blooming again for you.

(Ted Miller, 935 Polo Dr., Kannapolis, NC 28081)

The Carolinas Chapter of the AWA (CC-AWA) holds quarterly swap meets in the Carolinas, as well as an annual 3-day Spring Meet. "Radio Daze" is published quarterly. Dues are $10. For more information contact Ron Lawrence, PO Box 3015, Matthews, NC 28106-3015.

Meets vs. eBay

JOHN HAGMAN

Last fall, I attended the New England Antique Radio Club swap meet in Nashua, New Hampshire. I camped out on the shore of a beautiful alpine pond and discovered why outdoor fires were abandoned by the Stone Age folks for a little cold weather comfort. It saved over Motel 6 but was a bit too rustic for even my tastes.

I arrived at the swap about 8:00 A.M. and quickly found a Philco 38-10, beat up but complete, for $15. Everyone seems to assume that eBay has taken over this hobby, but I saw and spoke to hoards of buyers with folding money falling out of their pockets, desperately searching for anything to buy. But, there wasn't much there really, and I was unable to spend my budget. There were plenty of boutique sets with $750 price tags and a great carousel-style early jukebox, but only a few fixer-uppers for people like me.

It was a fun time, but I don't see why more sellers didn't show up. I haven't been collecting long enough to make a seller's table, but I wanted to have one right then. Who wants to deal with photographing, advertising, paying eBay, packing, shipping, and waiting for the check to clear? That's probably well worth it for individual sets in good condition, but a pre-Christmas swap crowd with cash in hand would no doubt be easier for a mass of radios, if properly priced.

AUCTION REPORT

The Vintage Radio and Phonograph Society Spring Auction
Grapevine, Texas — March 18, 2000

REPORTED BY GEORGE POTTER

The Vintage Radio and Phonograph Society (VRPS) held its annual spring auction at the Grapevine Convention Center in Grapevine, Texas, just northwest of the Dallas/Fort Worth Airport. The 226 attendees included 138 registered bidders. The doors opened at 7 A.M., and by 5 P.M., the auction was winding down. The sale of 381 items (with 14 passes) totalled $22,210.

Jim Sargent, president of VRPS, was auctioneer and kept a lively pace throughout the day. Jim was assisted by several new helpers, including a round-robin computer team learning a new auction program. TV monitors and remote cameras were again utlized at the event.

Among the highlights of the auction were a Pepsi bottle radio selling at $290, an Art Deco studio monitor from WFAA radio at $160, a Predicta TV at $290, a restored Crosley 124 cathedral at $270, a National NC-300 at $110, and a Zenith 12S47 console at $570. Of interest were two "sleeper" radios — a 1920s Kellogg set with Kellogg tubes selling for just $160 and a seldom seen Atwater Kent automobile radio with speaker selling at $95.

Accuracy of identification and condition is not guaranteed on the following items.

e=excellent, vg=very good, g=good, p=poor, f=fair, unk=unknown condition, N.O.S.=new old stock, wk=working, nwk=not working, WT=with tubes, NT=no tubes, BB=brass-based, TT=tipped top, PS=power supply

A warning: Auction prices are not current values. Our selection of auction items is not necessarily complete. A listing such as this cannot adequately include the condition of cabinets, chassis, transformers, tubes, the operating status of the set, and the inclusion of incorrect, restored or replica components, etc. Auction prices are the result of the excitement of the auction process, the skill of the auctioneer and the specific interests of the participants. Nevertheless, auction prices serve as useful references and as another element in the value determining process. The possibility of error always exists, and if we are notified, corrections will be reported.*

Antique Wireless Association Spring Meet
Bloomfield, New York — May 6, 2000

REPORTED BY LARRY BABCOCK

I arrived at the AWA spring meet in Bloomfield, New York, about 7:30 A.M., a bit later than my usual time. Although the official starting time was 8:00, 15 sellers had set up earlier. This number expanded to a peak of 26 sellers by 9:30. The weather was perfect, so I set up and sold a moderate number of small items.

My impression is that the AWA intentionally tries to keep this a small local event, as it seemed not to be widely advertised. A result was that less of the really nice historical stuff that I like to collect showed up. Of course, this is true of many meets these days — the Internet may have a lot to do with this change.

Among the interesting items to me in the flea market was a Stromberg-Carlson driver that I should have purchased. I have the A-1 horn (the one with the bark), but no driver. This one had some damage, but I hesitated, and it was gone.

The agenda was a bit different this year. There was no 9:00 A.M. AWA auction from the annex, but there were tables of AWA items for sale at the annex throughout the morning.

When I arrived inside the American Legion Hall for the luncheon, I found the tables for 80 just about full. As always, the meal was all you can eat, very inexpensive, and excellent. It was followed by an hour-long auction, also held inside the hall.

The star of the meet was a rare Paragon RA-10, which appeared to be in brand new, mint condition. However, when it was offered in the auction, the incredible story of its past was told. This set, the companion DA-2 detector/amplifier, and some other old radio gear, had been shipped to Hawaii in a very large container, along with many of the owner's other possessions, including an automobile. Along the way, the car was stolen from the container, and, in the process, ran over the RA-10 and the DA-2! It was turned into "a bag of crap," according to the restorer George Platteter. The other radio artifacts suffered the same fate.

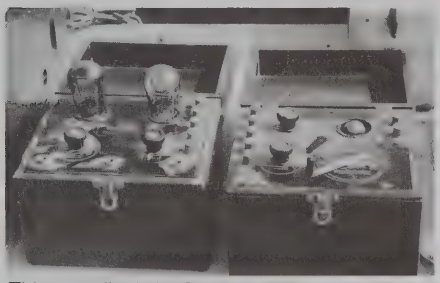
George had painstakingly restored the set. He made a tool to cut the molding to the proper original shape, and then made a new top and lower front molding. By grinding up old 78 rpm phonograph records and dissolving the powder in alcohol, he refinished the cabinet to the original black lacquer finish. After many tries, he finally got the effect he wanted by allowing the mixture to soak for four hours. He then took the lacquer from the top of the liquid and carefully smoothed it on with a camel hair brush. A beautiful, smooth, brand new appearance resulted.

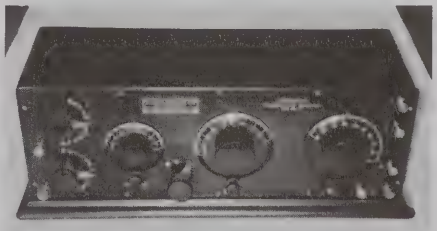
The set brought $550 in the auction, by far the highest price of any item sold. George did this restoration as a volunteer for the AWA and was happy to hear that the AWA got a good price for it. He also restored the DA-2 in a similar manner. The AWA still has the DA-2, but you might see it for sale at a future AWA event.

For me this was a great meet. As always, the best part was the fellowship with other collectors. I hope to see you there next year!

(Larry Babcock, 8095 Centre Ln., East Amherst, NY 14051)



This rare Radiola Senior and separate 2-step amplifier was offered in the flea market. Covered with the original dust, it was in nice shape.



This Adams Morgan Paragon RA-10 "Basket Case" was restored to mint condition and brought $550 at auction.

RADIO MISCELLANEA

"Radio Miscellanea" includes items of general interest selected from A.R.C.'s incoming correspondence. "In The Marketplace" items are based on information submitted by the businesses themselves. "From The Internet" items are obtained from internet newsgroups and other internet resources. Submitted items should be verified for accuracy; items may be edited by A.R.C. for publication, and publication is not guaranteed. See the masthead for more details.

BC-348N Saved from Crusher

Dear Editor:

I've been a subscriber to A.R.C. for years and have collected over 150 antique radios of all ages, shapes and sizes. I wanted to let you know about my latest find.

Because I work for one of the last transfer stations [a.k.a. dump] in eastern Massachusetts, I've managed to recycle quite a few old radios. Recently, someone left a BC-348N, and I grabbed it. I knew it was military but not much more than that. The very next day, I received the July A.R.C. I started flipping through the pages, and at page 8, I did a double take. I turned to my wife and said, "There it is!" I didn't realize I had a piece of history.

I'm interested in restoring the unit. Do you have any further information resources for this unit?

I've been collecting radios since I was ten and pulled my red wagon around checking on everyone's rubbish. Recycling is the way to preserve history!

Love your magazine. Keep the articles coming.

Dave Sousa, Arlington, MA

Sousa refers to the article by Louis D'Antuono in our July 2000 issue. Articles on military equipment appear in the March 1999, August 1999, and April 2000 issues of A.R.C. and revolve around the activities of the Military Radio Collectors Group in California. Contacting them would no doubt yield a wealth of information. (Editor)

What's This Thing with Wives?

The following message from the Internet newsgroup "rec.antiques.radio+phono" was irresistible in the light of past references in A.R.C. to "radio wives."

I am serious when I say reading this [news]group has had a profound effect on my approach to a potential mate. Lots of people, not all just women, of course, just don't get radio collecting. Their eyes glaze over when they see your new old radio on display, and they ask why you need more than one. Also, they talk about how much they like bright, airy rooms with huge windows, hardwood floors, and a clean, uncluttered look. An old friend is like this — she has California tastes marooned in New England. I could never bear such a person as a roommate at this point, let alone a wife.

Two questions I try to ask before the first date: 1) Do you like dogs and cats? 2) How about lots of dark polished wood?

Electronics Book Available

Dear Editor:

The Navy's book Basic Electronics suggested by Alton DuBois in the August A.R.C. is in print and available from Dover Publishing, Inc., 31 East 2nd St., Mineola, NY 11501. Dover puts out a catalog containing lots of assorted stuff and out-of-print books. My copy of over 500 pages cost $12.95, plus shipping. Payment is due with orders; no credit cards accepted.

Tips from Stan

Dear Editor:

Here's a hint for avoiding trouble in an All American Five. If you or a customer makes the mistake of swapping the 35Z5 and 50L6 tubes, the result will be a set that immediately hums when turned. This is because the 60-cycle power supply current flows through the output transformer to ground through a capacitor. A normal response would be to replace the filter capacitors, but that won't correct the problem if the 35Z5 and 50L6 have been swapped!

When troubleshooting, never assume that the set hasn't been messed with, but proceed with normal testing, and the result will be that you don't add more problems by your fixes.

Wireless Transformer Identified

Dear Editor:

Regarding the photo in the May 2000 article, page 5, entitled "Another Early Wireless Station," I recognize the high tension transformer (on the extreme right of the photo) as a 1914 William B. Duck Company product called a "flexible step-up wireless transformer." It is adjustable by the wingnut on top, which moves a magnetic shunt (part of the core) up and down so as to set the current limits (power) of operation. See the photo above from the 1914 catalog ad.

Frontier Discontinuing Some Items

Dear Editor:

Frontier Capacitor discontinued selling new capacitors on August 1, 2000. Contributing factors to this decision are erratic distributor prices, inflation, and my 79 years of age. A list of remaining new stock is available. All tubular, dual and triple capacitors will continue to be manufactured.

We will also continue to rebuild twist-lock cans, nut-mounted types, and tubular capacitors.

Thanks for your years of continued business and friendship.

Everett Hoard, Frontier Capacitor, P.O. Box 218, 402 S. McIntosh St., Lehr, ND 58460.

Vacuum Tube Repair Wafers

These tube repair wafers are solid-state devices for quick and easy repair of early vacuum tubes. The wafer is installed by simply sliding it over the tube pins and reinserting the tube into its socket. If the filament is intact, but there is little or no emission, the filament may be lit for best visual effect. However, the tube can be open filament.

No change in radio operating voltages is required. Any number of tubes may be repaired in a radio. If wafers are installed on all tubes, the B+ voltage may usually be reduced without sacrificing volume or sensitivity. Performance will vary between radio models.

$10.00/each ($7.50/ea. 3 or more)

Antique Radio Power Supply

The H15/ H16 power supplies operates most tube type battery radios from low cost batteries. The H15/H16 steps up the voltage from a 6V battery to provide 22.5V, 45V, and 90VDC for the "B" voltage requirements.

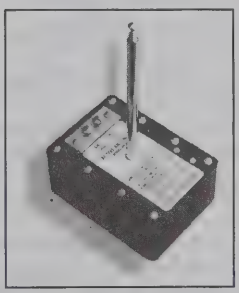
A very desirable feature of the H15/H16 is the method of switching power on and off. This function is provided by the switch on the radio. No radio modification required.

The "A" voltage required by the radio can be from "C" or "D" flashlight batteries or from a 6V gelled electrolyte battery when operating 5V tubes. When operating 1.5, 2, or 3V tubes the H15/H16 can be powered by 4 "C" or "D" flashlight batteries or from a 6V gelled electrolyte battery. The gelled electrolyte battery can operate both the H15/H16 and the 6V "A" supply for 5V tubes from one battery.

Order the H15 of parallel filaments or the H16 for series filaments.

The compact size, 4"X4"X3/4", allows the unit to be installed with batteries in the battery compartment of most radios.

H15 or H16: $99.50. Accessories: "D" cell holders: $6.00 per set. 6V 10AH battery $31.00. Battery charger $45.00. 1.5 - 90V socket $9.50.



Active Antenna

Allows antique radios which were designed for a long wire outdoor antenna to operate on a 42" indoor whip antenna. Portable, operates from a 9 volt battery.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 29¢ each. See details below. Classified ads sent by mail, fax, e-mail or by any other method must be received (not just postmarked!) by Noon Eastern Time on the classified ad deadline date to guarantee inclusion in the current issue. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page 2 for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Faxed & e-mailed ads: Please see additional information on the inside front cover.

When including ads with other A.R.C. correspondence, write the ads on a separate piece of paper. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

To minimize our typing errors: Please write legibly. Use both capital and small letters. Do not use a dash between words. Carefully write the following numbers and letters (especially in model numbers) since some can look alike; for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Also: 0, O , o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which we might mistake as a more common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's annotations are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

The publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Names other than the advertiser will be edited out of ads. Ads with non-radio-related items will be returned or edited unless the non-radio-related items are for trade of radio-related items, or they are incidental to and appear at the end of an otherwise acceptable ad. The publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason. See also Publishing Rights on page 2.

Clubs: Since club activities receive free coverage on the Coming Radio Events pages, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. A discount on display advertising is available for clubs.

CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: NOON ET– 10th of the month!

Classified ads must have a standard heading such as WANTED, FOR SALE, FOR TRADE, FOR SALE/TRADE, SERVICES, MESSAGE, HELP, AUCTION, MEET, etc. This heading is the only bold or all-capitalized words allowed in the ad. Capitalize only manufacturer names, model names, etc. This standard ad format makes scanning the ads easier.

Before writing your ad, please look over the ads in a recent issue of A.R.C., and try to write your ad in the same style. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads; we will add it if you forget.

To encourage varied content of the ads, the same classified ad may be run only once per issue and for only two consecutive months. (To run an ad longer, use a boxed classified or display ad.)

Classified Ad Rates per Month

Subscribers:
- First 20 words: FREE
- 29¢ per word for extra words over 20 plus
- 10¢ per word for a shaded ad (count all words including free words).
- * Subscribers may take 20 free words on only one ad each month.

Non-Subscribers:
- 47¢ per word plus
- 10¢ per word for shaded ad.

Please do not forget to send in the extra 29¢ per word when your classified ad runs over the free 20 words; your payment will be appreciated, and it will help to keep A.R.C. healthy.

BOXED CLASSIFIED AD DETAILS

Deadline: 1st of the month!

Boxed classified ads can run unchanged for three months or more. No words are free. Ads may be shaded and may include bold and all-capitalized words freely. The ad need not begin with "For Sale," etc. Minimum run is 3 months, prepaid. Discount: 10% for 6 months; 20% for 12 months.

Boxed Classified Ad Rates per Month

Nonshaded ads:
- 40¢ per word for all words,* none free, plus
- 10¢ per word for each bold word plus
- 10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Shaded Ads (All words are bold at no charge):
- 50¢ per word for all words* plus
- 10¢ per word for each all-caps word.

Non-Subscribers:
- Add 20¢ per word to above costs.

*Three words can be bold-all-caps at no extra charge.

Deadline: 1st of the month for all ads with drawings or photos!

Drawings and photos are encouraged as the response to your ad is much larger and the reader knows better what you want or are selling. Send in your drawing or photograph, and A.R.C. will reduce it or enlarge it as needed.

$23.00 per month for each photo or drawing
(If ad is canceled, this amount cannot always be refunded.)

CHANGES & CANCELLATIONS

Please check your ads carefully before sending them in. Once ads are received, it is not always possible to refund the amount sent, pull the ad or make changes.

IMPORTANT — COUNTING WORDS — IMPORTANT

The standard headings: WANTED, FOR SALE, etc., count as one word each time used in an ad. Name, address and (one) telephone number, count as 6 words, regardless of length. Ham call letters and business name can be included in the 6 words and do not count extra. Full name (or company name) and address is required in all classified ads. Each additional word, abbreviation, model number or number group, extra telephone numbers, fax, e-mail, etc. count as one word each. Hyphenated words count as two words.
